Cityspace buys Kizoom

Cityspace has acquired Kizoom, a UK specialist in delivering real-time transport information to the internet and mobile devices.

Founded in 1999, Kizoom established a profitable market niche through the development and operation of mobile software applications for the major transport operators and selling bespoke customer information software services to public transport companies. Kizoom's client list currently boasts the five biggest UK mobile operators, Transport for London (TfL), National Rail Enquiries (NRE), the DfT, Trainline and eight Traveline regions.

"Kizoom is a great fit for the business in several ways," said Andrew Fraser, Cityspace CEO, adding that the acquisition brings proven expertise in mobile solutions for the transport market as a time Cityspace is establishing itself as a provider of passenger information solutions for national rail and bus networks and at airports.
