

Kizoom in the news

Publication: Mobile Industry Review

Date: 06 August 2008

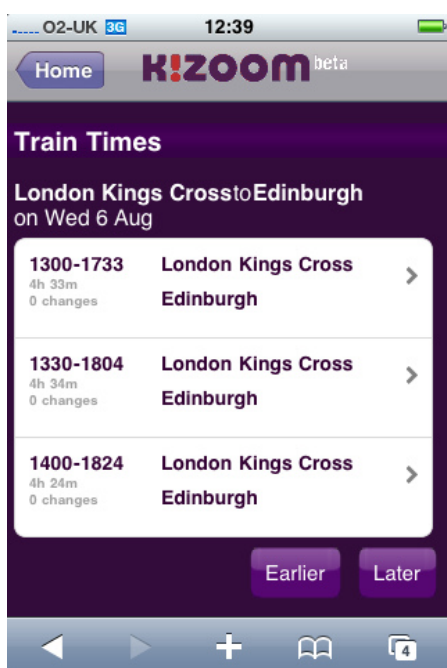

Kizoom's iPhone web application is a joy

Published by Ewan on Wednesday 6th August 2008, 16:33 | Related | Filed Under

Filed Under: Mobile

Tags: iPhone • Kizoom • web application

I've been playing with Kizoom.mobi. That's the address you need for UK train times when you're on the go. Type it in to your phone and it'll work beautifully — type it in to your iPhone and it's even better.

The Kizoom chaps, now owned by CitySpace, have created a customised iPhone design. It's a real joy to use.

In under 5 seconds, I was able to find out that, if I left London in 20 minutes, I could be in Edinburgh at 1733. No changes.

Related Posts

August 11, 2008 -- Video Podcast 17 from Covent Garden

August 11, 2008 -- T-Mo planning iPhone app store equivalent?

August 9, 2008 -- Apple iPhone 3G unlocked - what now?

August 8, 2008 -- UK iPhone unlocked and running on the Three network!

August 8, 2008 -- Can Apple kill your iPhone apps?

