

Kizoom in the news

---

Publication: Transit

Date: 15 August 2008

inbrief

Wireless network goes live at St Pancras

A wireless broadband network is now live at St Pancras International station, enabling the 45 million people who travel through the station every year to take advantage of fast, free internet access throughout the station.

Covering approximately 2km<sup>2</sup>, the project sees two floors of the £800m redeveloped station flooded with Wi-Fi. The network has been installed by Cityspace, which will also manage the service. The network will facilitate staff and operational functions within the station by this autumn.

